If a patient remains in the hospital after the end of any month, any balance to the credit of such patients account would represent an Advance Payment. If a patient has left the hospital at the end of any month, any balance to the credit of such patients account would represent an Overpayment. In order to have a proper record for reference the Superintendents clerk at the end of each month should note in a book kept for that purpose a detailed list of and the amounts of Accounts Receivable, Advance Payments by Patients and Overpayments by Patients, as shown by the card ledger account cards, after these accounts have been balanced for the month. Overpayments by Patients are payments made by them for services or care, etc. , never rendered. As the...
