

The Mind of the Nation A Study of Political Thought in the Nineteenth Century

By Marcus Robert Phipps Dorman

General Books. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 126 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.3in. This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1900. Excerpt: . . . CHAPTER V THE PRINCIPLES OF THE PARTIES Section I. --Constitutional Development Most men in the upper and middle classes, and many artisans, style themselves Liberals or Conservatives, but if one enquires why they do so, the reason given in nearly all cases is not connected with the general principles and history of the two parties, but is limited to the policy adopted, and the measures proposed or passed within the last twenty years. In general terms the Liberals advocate peace, retrenchment, and reform, and no one, without the strongest reasons, desires war, extravagance, or laissez aire, therefore we must all be Liberals. The Conservatives, on the other hand, advocate the preservation of the Empire, the maintenance of our institutions, and the improvement of the condition of the people, and it is difficult to find fault with such principles; therefore we must all be Conservatives. The...

READ ONLINE
[7.38 MB]

Reviews

Basically no terms to clarify. It is actually written in basic terms rather than confusing. I found out this ebook from my dad and I suggested this book to find out.

-- Elinore Vandervort

If you need to add benefit, a must buy book. I could possibly comprehend every little thing out of this composed pdf. I am quickly could get a enjoyment of looking at a composed book.

-- Mrs. Mariam Hartmann